Vonnie Wallace 1200 Westside Road Camas Valley, OR 97416

Please make checks payable to Camas Valley Rural Fire District and designate them for THE FLAME.

Food Pantry is Still Active and BUSY, BUSY, BUSY!

Despite the warmer weather, February is still cool enough for caps/gloves/socks. I noticed a number of stores offering winter clothing at discount. Why not pick up a few items and drop them off at the Food Barrel at the Post Office? That way the pantry will have them available for parents to pick them up for their children.

Of course, canned foods and dry staples such as pasta are always welcome. Many families are struggling due to pandemic layoffs who have never before used a food pantry. Thanks for supporting them.

Thanks for all the support for our Food Pantry!!!

Please send your check to support the Pantry to:

W-D Food Pantry c/o Vonnie Wallace 1200 Westside Rd

Our current approach to combatting wildfire isn't working. So why do we remain complacent in the face of failure?

when thick smoke and ash from hundreds of nearby wildfires transformed the daytime skies above Northern California and the Pacific Northwest into a murky orange twilight. Social media was flooded with images from the surreal spectacle.

On Twitter, I shared a reporter's video of a man silhouetted against the dark orange skies, gazing out at the apocalyptic scene from beneath San Francisco's Bay Bridge. "If only I could believe this is 'the worst ...'" I wrote, before posting it.

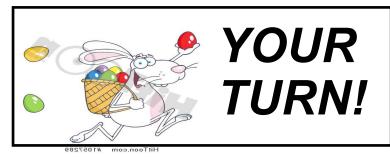

I admit, that sentiment might sound especially dismal amidst this terrible year and the horrific fires that continue in California, Washington, and Oregon. But I've read reports of small towns burned to the tor of the Federal Emergency Manageground, of deaths, and of crowded wildfire shelters in the midst of a global pandemic. In fact, I've seen little in my career that rivals the magnitude of these events. But I also know that the wildfire records being broken in 2020 will not stand for long; the devastation will continue to get worse in the coming years due in large part to global climate change. The critical question ahead is whether we will learn from these fires and adapt accordingly, or if we will once again write off these events as "extreme" or as "anomalies" and resume our complacency.

For decades, scientists have warned of the dire consequences of

In early September, there were days global climate change, and it's clear that that future is here. Those consequences include higher highs and lower lows, meaning climate extremes in every direction. That doesn't mean that every wildfire season will be as bad as this one, but previously unthinkable events massive wildfires in normally humid regions, or years with almost no snowpack in historically cool, wet mountain ranges—will become, if not normal, at least possible within the range of imagination. These conditions set the stage for the massive wildfire events we've witnessed this year, and that we might witness long into the future. To combat them means changing our mindset, our strategies, and our response.

> Craig Fugate, the former administrament Agency, has been an outspoken advocate for this practice. In interviews, he has stressed that we need to take a science-based approach to help us imagine and plan for much larger, more complex events, the types that we currently like to describe as "extreme." While such an approach might make some agencies and policymakers uncomfortable, the truth is that yesterday's extreme is today's normal. Instead of planning based on the current capabilities of our agencies—in the hope they can scale up to meet a large disasterwe must realistically assess community risk and plan for worst-case scenarios.

Easter arrives the first Sunday in April. That means the Easter Egg Hunt is April 3rd, if we mind our P's and Q's, and keep our COVID numbers down. We all missed the excitement of the hunt, the drawings, the cake walk, and of course the Easter Bunny.

While that may sound a long way off, it isn't if you are asking for donations and organizing volunteers. And guess what? The Fire Department Auxiliary is without a president! We do have a good group of volunteers that have worked on the Hunt for several years, a former President willing to guide someone through the process, and a bunch of egg hunters that missed that opportunity last year!

Would someone please step forward to continue this great tradition? Tenmile, we appreciate your contributions. Can you take the lead?

If you are considering, please call Vonnie at 541-445-2355.

A great big thank you goes to Troy and his super staff at the Bravo who sold tickets for our Christmas raffle quilt. The raffle brought in over $800 and this would not have been possible without the Bravo. Kudos to them!

SNAP continued from pg.3

On the preparation and response side, fire scientists have long said that the paradigm of trying to control and suppress fire is no longer sustainable. Instead, we need to utilize our knowledge of wildfire by creating fire-resilient land-scapes and, ultimately, a society that can truly co-exist with wildfire. This entails planning, designing, building, and maintaining our communities with wildfire in mind, a process achieved through smart land use, fire-resistant building design, and ongoing work to make homes and communities ignition-resistant.

Complacency with our current approach to wildfire is a path toward the disastrous outcomes we witnessed this summer. That approach has resulted in a society that is barely prepared for normal events, much less the so-called "extremes" we are seeing now and can anticipate in the future. Anyone who saw photos of communities beneath apocalyptic orange skies knows deep down that we can't wait any longer to act. We must listen to science, we must recognize the evolving threat of wildfire, and we must act to face it head-on.

CAMAS VALLEY CHARTER SCHOOL

Superintendent's Message

Dear Camas Valley Family,

The end of January marks the end of the first semester, so half the school year has gone by. I know it has been a difficult time with COVID, but there is a lot to be thankful for.

First, Camas Valley School has been one of the only schools in the state of Oregon to have been open to on-site learning from the very beginning of the school year. Second, as other school districts and teacher unions debate about when to come back to on-site learning, our teachers have been here serving their students the whole year, which speaks to our staff's commitment level.

It has been hard on the teachers. Teaching both on-site learners and a few distance learners has created a much more demanding workload for them. They have done so with a good attitude and how-to mentality. This has been uncharted territory for all of us, but the staff keeps the students as the focus and keeps moving in a positive direction.

As we move into the second half of the year, there are some positives, signs that a few things are moving in the right direction. More schools are starting to open, which could help our kids in the area of extracurricular activities. Last week, schools met and put together a middle school flag football schedule and it looks like other sports like volleyball and track in middle school and high school are closer to happening. The governor has not removed the ban on contact sports, so basketball, tackle football, and wrestling remain up in the air until she does so; until then, we will continue to support our students and advocate for them.

With anticipation of better things,

Mr. Wonsley

Safety Tips for Caregivers of the elderly:

Safe outdoor areas are important for those who are confused but are mobile. Safety features should include—

- ramps for access on ground that is not level or even
- a deck with a sturdy railing
- outside doors locked or alarmed
- a key hidden outside
- · enough light to see walkway hazards at night

- nonslip step surfaces in good repair
- stair handrails fastened to their fittings
- step edges marked with reflective paint
- hedge or fence around the yard and dangerous areas like pools or streams.

In addition, unplug or remove power tools.

"FREE" Community Clothes Closet

When: 1:00 pm to 3:00 pm, first Thursday following the first Monday of the month.

Where: Parking lot of Camas Valley Christian Fellowship (alongside UCAN (mobile food bank, in front of the church).

How: Providing free clothes for the community.

For clothing emergencies please call (503) 302-6323.

I began my commercial journey with Mommy & Me Jewelre in 2002, purchased Kewl Wraps in 2018, and created Country Crafts & Graphics in 2018. I was working full time and the goal was to build my business in preparation of retirement in 2017.

Originally, I designed and made sterling silver matching jewelry bracelet sets for Moms and daughters combined with western jewelry and side products. Due to rising silver costs, I changed over to therapeutic magnetic jewelry. Although magnetic jewelry is no longer my primary focus, it is still an important element of my business offerings.

In 2013 we purchased Kewl Wraps, a neck cooler business and participated in three large summer music festivals each year until Covid-19. This entailed sewing around 2,000 neck coolers per year to keep the inventory up enough to attend these large events. Due to the current state situation regarding gatherings, we are unsure what 2021 holds for Kewl Wraps.

In 2018, we created Country Crafts & Graphics which more represents my wide range of product lines.
Besides the jewelry and neck cooler businesses, I now provide custom apparel, vehicle & business decals, tumblers and mugs, acrylic products such as keychains, badge reels, and pop sockets utilizing embroidery, sublimation, vinyl, and printing.

Business from pg. 6

With embroidery being added to my product line last year, my plans are to continue building the CCG business in the commercial embroidered logo direction. I will be receiving a white toner printer in the next week or two which will add another avenue for printing. Truly exciting!

I strive to provide my customers excellent customer service and to go that extra mile to produce a product that they are proud to display, wear, and recommend. If they need something last minute, I do everything I can to get them what they need. I'm their "Go to Girl". I'd like my businesses and myself to be known for custom, quality, home crafted, and professional items for the family and their businesses.

Memory Care - Avoid Falls

Falls are the leading cause of injury-related deaths among people 65 and older. Protect the person in your care by—

- exercising to preserve muscle strength and flexibility
- being extra careful when the person takes medications that cause dizziness or sleepiness
- going to the eye doctor once a year for check-ups.
