Raffle Quilt

This year's raffle quilt was donated by Mary Jean Anderson, is machine quilted with a flannel back. It would keep a loved one warm as a lap quilt or be a beautiful wall hanging.

Raffle tickets are only $1 each and may be purchased at Market Plus or from Vonnie Wallace or Amandah Norman. The raffle winner ticket will be drawn at the Firemen's Appreciation Dinner, usually while everyone is enjoying the great food! While you do not have to be present to win, why would you want to miss all the fun and good food!?!

And if you don't win, you can still bid on quilts during the quilt auction after dinner and pick up some great gifts for the family at the Silent Auction.

Quilt Auction Sneak Peeks

Want a quilt in reserve? How about this quillo? Comfortable pillow that can convert to a quilt when the need arises.

Have a junior firefighter at home? This would brighten (and warm) their Christmas morning. Bid for me at the quilt auction!

Push for More State, Local Action Needed to Stem the Tide of U.S. Wildfire Loss

JIM PAULEY, PRESIDENT & CEO, NFPA

With the autumn months upon us, fire managers and residents living in the western U.S. remain vigilant as roughly 50 large active wildfires continue to burn across 10 states. Today, wildfire season is lasting longer than a few decades before – three and a half months longer according to the data – based on conditions like forests full of burnable fuel and a more arid climate that have allowed fires to start and keep burning.

In late September President Joe Biden visited areas impacted by the Caldor Fire, a 220,000-plus acre fire burning across the Sierra Nevada mountains in Northern California. It was once again a wake-up call to the level of devastation caused by wildfires. As a result of the ongoing devastation, the federal government is awakening to the fact that a significant investment needs to be made for wildfire mitigation – not just more dollars for suppression. NFPA applauds this broader thinking at the federal level as well as a more focused look at long term solutions to the wildfire problem. However, we don't believe that placing the responsibility for the heart of the wildfire crisis – the communities in the way of the flames – on the shoulders of the federal government alone will move the needle towards sustainable change.

To truly tackle the wildfire challenge, we must encourage local and state governments to act in tandem with federal efforts to mitigate wildfire severity ... These efforts include promoting retrofits of homes to reduce their vulnerability to ignition and requiring all new construction to meet the latest codes and standards, as well as abide by sound land use practices. A consistent message from all elected officials, from the President to local mayors, will help gain acceptance for these common-sense fire safety measures, from clearing vegetation and debris from five feet around a home to recognizing that some land is just too hazardous and too dangerous to defend to allow for homes and human settlement.

For years, we have spread homes and neighborhoods on landscapes prone to fire, neglected the management of those lands to lower the risk of catastrophic fires, and kicked the can down the road on dealing with either of these issues. Therefore, NFPA is encouraged to see proposals like those under debate on Capitol Hill that will start to confront what's been long neglected. Elected officials can offer no more excuses for failing to prepare for wildfire and must take swift action to mitigate the risks of wildfire disasters. Wildfires are going to happen and fire departments cannot extinguish them all at a pace to save all people and property in their paths.

We all have the power to break the cycle and get back on track toward a more sustainable future. If we truly want to stem the tide of destruction, local governments must address the risks they face because their residents are living on borrowed time. The time is now to transform every at-risk community to weather the embers, wind-driven flames, and smoke of our new wildfire reality.

Veterans Day is not just a 4-day weekend

When you look at the November calendar, is the first thing you think when spotting the Veterans Day break, “Cool, a long weekend! Let’s go somewhere!”

I’m guilty. We have family plans—the grandkids are out of school and we have seen so little of them the past 18 months.

Both our sons served. They both lost friends; one wears a bracelet in memoriam. They definitely look at this day differently than most of us. Do you realize that only 10% of Americans serve in the defense of their country? These young Americans deserve a huge amount of respect for their sacrifices of time from families, risk of emotional/physical harm. Then there are the veterans of WWII, Korea, Vietnam, and Desert Storm—usually only identifiable if wearing a hat/jacket/ or tattoo referencing their experiences.

So enjoy the grandkids, the trip to the coast/mountains, relaxing at the casino, but pause to thank them in your mind if not personally.

The Appreciation Dinner also features a bake sale of homemade goodies. Never met a bake sale I didn’t like. Pull out the recipes of family favorites and share with your neighbors. All the proceeds go to finishing the interior of the Fire Hall.

Pumpkin Praline Scones

2 c. flour
1/2 c. packed brown sugar
2 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. ginger
1/8 tsp. ground cloves
5 T. unsalted butter
3/4 c. pumpkin puree
1 c. sour cream
1/2 c. water, or enough to moisten

Praline

Combine:

3 T. softened butter
1/3 c. flour
1/3 c. packed brown sugar
3/4 c. chopped pecans

Preheat oven to 450°. Combine flour, brown sugar, baking powder, salt, and spices; cut in butter. In separate bowl, stir together pumpkin, sour cream, and water. Add to flour mixture, adding more water if needed. Dough should stick together but not be sticky. Turn out onto lightly floured surface and knead 4-6 times. Pat out into 1/4” thick rectangle. *Sprinkle entire surface with praline. Roll up and seal seam. Cut into 3/4” slices and space 1” apart on greased baking sheet. Bake 12 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 16-18 scones.

* You may also cover half of rectangle with praline and fold the other half on top. Cut out rounds and space 1” apart. Bake as above.

Superintendent's Message

Dear Camas Valley families,

The ag program is off and rolling, we have 11 middle schoolers and 45 high schoolers enrolled in agriculture science classes. We are offering three different pathways, animal science, plant science, and agribusiness. Animal science includes Introduction to agriculture, animal science, and veterinary science. Plant science includes Introduction to agriculture, agriculture biology, and forestry. Agribusiness includes Introduction to agriculture, leadership and marketing.

Our Ag science and FFA teacher Amanda Kylo-Crowe stated "Our FFA chapter application for charter has been accepted by the State and National FFA Associations. This means we are an official FFA chapter once again and are able to participate in contests and conferences throughout the state."

If you are interested in getting involved in the Camas Valley FFA Alumni group please email Amanda Kylo-Crowe at akcrowe@camasvalley.k12.or.us

I want to thank our great ag teacher, the students and parents that have gotten the ag department off to a great start. Thank you for your support of the program as we grow in this academic area. I'm looking forward to seeing those FFA jackets on our students!
